

Canadian Black Lives and the Canadian and World Studies Curriculum.

Purpose: To show and demonstrate how and where ideas of Canadian Black Lives (CBL) can be incorporated into the current CHC - curriculum documents. "History involves the study of diverse individuals, groups, and institutions as well as significant events, developments, and issues in the past. The Grade 10 History courses provide students with an overview of Canadian history from the eve of WW1 to the present." (Canada and World Studies - 2018 revised). Within this statement, the relevance of highlighting Canadian Black Lives is ever more relevant and essential. The concepts of Disciplinary Thinking within History utilize ideas such as Historical Significance, Cause and Consequence, Continuity & Change, and Historical Perspective, all provide an avenue for CBL to be recognized and essential in the growth of Canada in the 20th and 21st centuries. Understanding the roles, effectiveness, and relevance that CBL has played in this growth is essential to the aforementioned concepts of disciplinary thinking.
